THE NEWEST PROFESSION— A SHORT HISTORY OF SOCIAL WORK

by Eileen Younghusband

Shortly before her death in May, Dame Eileen Younghusband, lecturer, doyenne of British social work and an adviser to the magazine, completed a short history of social work. This has been published by the magazine at £2.50.

Written in Dame Eileen's characteristically lucid style, with the authority of half a century of involvement behind it, the book is both a fitting tribute to its author and an essential reference book for students, teachers and practitioners.

The text is enlivened by eight pages of photographs — some historical, others illustrating modern practice and the context in which it exists.

The book concludes with two memoirs of the author — the first by Terry Philpot, a personal tribute on behalf of the magazine by its editor; the other by Professor Kathleen Jones, Dame Eileen's authorised biographer.

Orders of five or more copies can be ordered at a special rate of £2 per copy.

In his foreword to the history, Professor Martin Davies of East Anglia University, writes: "Of its kind it seems to me just right: readable, erudite and never obscure."
